

AWARD OF EXCELLENCE

Canadian Museum of Civilization, Grand Hall

Designer: Ross Nicholson

Company: Ross Nicholson Architectural Lighting

Owner: Canadian Museum of Civilization

Photography: Ross Nicholson

Project at a Glance

Although it's one of the most recognizable structures in Canada, this Quebec building was virtually invisible on the night skyline prior to the project. Now, upwardly aimed floodlights rake the columns and upper building façade, bringing out the stone texture and avoiding interior light trespass that would impact those inside the hall and pedestrians in the plaza.

